EXECUTIVE SUMMARY

Australia has supported reform in Cambodia's justice sector since 1997. The Cambodia Community Justice Assistance Partnership (CCJAP) – the fourth phase of this support – is a AUD12 million program that began in February 2013 and will end in June 2016. This is the third CCJAP output-to-outcome Six-Monthly Progress Report, covering the period from October 2014 to March 2015. This report presents progress against the second CCJAP annual work-plan and budget, which covers the period from July 2014 to June 2015. The report also presents adequacy of progress towards end-of-program outcomes, including results from activities and outputs under the first CCJAP annual work-plan and budget, which covered the period from July 2013 to June 2014.

The most significant development during the reporting period has been the evolution of the relationship between CCJAP and the Cambodian National Police (CNP), which has resulted in the deepening of ties between both organisations and the commencement of a CCJAP-supported program to implement community policing across the CNP's 1633 commune police posts. CCJAP has earned the trust of its CNP counterparts at the highest command levels of the organisation and has provided strategic advice to the leadership of the CNP's Department of Administrative Police Post Affairs (DAPPA), which is the CNP department tasked with implementing community policing in Cambodia. The move to pilot and implement community policing is a major first step towards modernising the CNP's systems of police service delivery while focusing crime prevention and community safety on key social issues such as reducing gender-based violence (GBV). The progress made by CCJAP in this period is significant, and combines the development of trusted and mature relationships with a shared commitment to trial and implement community policing across the country.

Not all thematic areas have made progress during the period, with alternative sentencing and work to better use data for decision-making not making demonstrable progress. The key highlights of progress in each thematic area are as follows.

The justice system is managed for more effective pre-trial arrangement, and use of non-custodial sentencing

During the reporting period, there was no significant progress made towards effective implementation of alternative sentencing. From a budget perspective, the overall delivery rate at the end of December 2014 was only 16% of the total approved budget. Organisationally, the Ministry of Justice (MoJ) is in the process of restructuring and the transition has been taking longer than expected. H.E. Ith Rady, who has been the sole key player in this area, was elected as a member of the Supreme Council of Magistracy. His role in the implementation of alternative sentencing will likely be transferred to another official at the MoJ. There has not been any explicit indication as to who the person will be, although H.E. Chin Malin – also Undersecretary of State of the Ministry of Interior (MoI) – has now been officially assigned to chair the Secretariat for Legal and Judicial Reform. Until there is a formal replacement, progress in Intermediate Outcome areas 1a and 1b is expected to remain stagnant.

From a management and leadership perspective, the MoJ has not shown a strategic commitment to the expansion of alternative sentencing within courts. At a meeting of the Technical Working Group for Legal and Judicial Reform held on 27 February 2015, H.E. Chin Malin (as mentioned above, now Chairman of the Secretariat for Legal and Judicial Reform) stated that he expected that an action plan could not be completed until June 2015.

The lack of genuine progress to date is indicative of issues relating to the effectiveness of implementation and sustainability beyond CCJAP's completion in mid-2016. These issues include: the lack of human resources and government funding; the poorly functioning Alternative Sentencing Technical Working Group (ASTWG) (which has only met once since this fourth phase of support began); and the lack of mechanisms, guidelines and procedures to support implementation of the three new circulars approved by the MoJ to support change in this area. No proper plan of implementation or strategy is in place, although there have been indications on a number of occasions – including the successful inclusion of alternative sentencing in the Joint Monitoring Indicators, which represents a national policy document of the government of Cambodia – that alternative sentencing may receive some support from within the MoJ as part of the national legal and judicial reform strategy. However, this is not likely to occur during the remainder of the CCJAP program life.

CCJAP consulted with its respective counterpart at the MoJ during the period and reached agreement in September 2014 that future technical support would be based on specific activity requests, allowing the thematic adviser to support the development and implementation of the community policing program in the area of alternative dispute resolution. As a result, various forms of technical support were provided with the support of this adviser, and a snapshot survey was conducted in six communes in three separate provinces to inform the community policing related programming of the CNP.

Improved custody for prison detainees

Some progress was made towards improved prison conditions for detainees, especially in relation to the promotion of prisoner education and rehabilitation policies, prison management models and prison health conditions. CCJAP partly financed the General Department of Prisons (GDoP) to organise a workshop to finalise its prison management model policy. The workshop drew a total of 54 participants (of which 10 were female). Participants included prison chiefs, deputy chiefs and GDoP officials from provincial prisons and national correctional centres. The objective of the introduction of this new policy is to promote better prison management and to support the improvement of prisoner education and rehabilitation; the improvement of the health of detainees; the improved application of prisoner sentence reduction and amnesty; and the more humane management of prison detainees. CCJAP also partly financed GDoP to conduct one training session with 36 senior prison officer participants from provincial prisons and national correctional centres to strengthen capacity relating to prisoner education and rehabilitation policies.

GDoP has conducted post-training field monitoring of 16 provinces in order to assess the performance of those prisons in the application of prisoner education and rehabilitation policies. The monitoring team found that 14 out of the 16 visited prisons have fully applied the policies, whereas 2 provincial prisons needed further direction. Further, the GDoP annual report has disclosed that the number of prisoners who received sentence reduction and amnesty has increased for the past two consecutive years from 615 (5% of the total number of convicted prisoners) in 2012 to 1,346 (12%) in 2013, and 1,461 (14%) in 2014 (Figure 2-3).

CCJAP continued to support the monitoring of the outcomes from its support to the GDoP inter-agency health service meeting, which was partly supported by CCJAP in 2013. It is positive to note that most provincial prisons have continued this practice and some provincial prisons (such as Kampong Thom, Siem Reap and Banteay Meanchey) have mobilised more support of health services (Table 2-1).

Women, youth and children are safer, and the communities have less crime

Crime prevention and community safety (CPCS) continued to produce the most promising results among the three CCJAP thematic areas of support. During this six-month reporting period, CCJAP funded approximately USD152,106 from its Partnership Support Fund to implement 627 CPCS projects, which benefited a total of 42,115 people (of which 22,708 were female). The CPCS projects mainly cover a wide range of community awareness raising and education related to various local safety issues such as drugs, gambling, illegal trafficking, violence, and so on. Approximately 33% (by value) of the CCJAP-funded CPCS projects addressed prevention of GBV such as domestic violence, sexual exploitation, rape, child labour trafficking, and women/children trafficking (Figure 2-4) – a larger percentage than addressed any other issue.

Using the CCJAP internal evaluation and monitoring system's 5-scale rating system (excellent, good, fair, poor, and very poor), more than 80% of the CPCS project respondents (total of 295 respondents) reported "Good" and "Excellent" awareness improvement as a result of attending the CPCS awareness raising projects. The other 19% of the respondents reported "Fair" awareness improvement, and no respondent reported "Poor" or "Very Poor" (Figure 2-6).

CNP has shown its strong commitment to improve police post services and to better respond to communities' safety needs. To realise these commitments, CNP has committed to implementing a reform process based around community policing and has been actively engaged with CCJAP during the period as it established DAPPA, which will oversee the implementation and subsequent management of the reform program. In addition, during the period the CNP used its own funds to organise a national workshop on Police Post Management Structure and financed several four-day training sessions on Roles and Responsibilities of Police Posts and Procedures in Kampot, Kep, Preah Sihanouk and Koh Kong provinces. The CNP and CCJAP co-financed nine separate workshops on Strengthening of Police Posts for Community Safety in the nine CCJAP partner provinces.

Justice sector uses strengthened systems for evidence-based management

Negligible progress has been made towards this thematic outcome during this reporting period. Among the three agencies (CNP, GDoP and MoJ) supported by CCJAP, CNP has shown some progress towards using crime and operational data to evaluate Village-Commune Safety Policy (VCSP) performance. The use of this data, however, is limited and is applied on the basis that a reduction in reports of crime reflects improvement, which in many instances is counter-intuitive due to the likelihood that improved police and community engagement generally results in increased reporting of crime. Additionally, the percentage of police commands providing on-time and on-quality crime data to CNP increased from 38% in 2013 to 50% in 2014 (Figure 2-7). This level of increase demonstrates progress and the sustained commitment of CNP with only limited CCJAP support during the period. CCJAP provided technical support to the CNP in their second strategic planning process and encouraged the CNP to apply data within their strategic plan by introducing data analysis and indicator development techniques to these CNP counterparts. As a result, some indicators have been generated from CNP crime and operation data and have been used to create indicators that have been applied in the second CNP draft strategic plan for 2015–2019.

In contrast, GDoP did not show any indication during the period of making use of its prisoner data for supporting their strategic decision-making processes. During this reporting period, CCJAP supported GDoP to organise a workshop on strengthening data report quality and on making use of data to support improved cooperation and coordination between courts and prison management to resolve the issues of missing or deficient prisoner documents. CCJAP continued to follow up with GDoP on issues of on-time and on-quality data submitted by provincial prisons to GDoP. This contributed to an increase in the percentage of prisons submitting on-time and on-quality prisoner data to GDoP from 0% in 2013 to 7% in 2014.

During the reporting period, the MoJ did not make any identifiable progress towards implementing its court register or in using data from its systems to support improved decision-making. In the nearly four years since the court register was launched in 2011, the MoJ has not completed case management records from any provincial or municipal court. During this reporting period, CCJAP worked to improve this area of MoJ activities by partly funding a MoJ workshop to identify the issues and challenges in the implementation of the court register, along with partially funding a MoJ National Conference chaired by the MoJ Minister. Both of these activities, however, lacked any process of monitoring or evaluation of impact and no evidence can be identified that suggests that either supported activity had any measurable impact.

1 INTRODUCTION

1.1 Project Description

The Cambodia Community Justice Assistance Partnership (CCJAP) is an Australian-funded 3.5-year project from 2013 to 2016 supporting the Royal Government of Cambodia (RGC) and its legal and judicial reform. Since 1997, Australia has provided financial and technical support to RGC in its legal and judicial reform efforts, with a focus on improving access to justice, with a particular emphasis on vulnerable groups such as women and juveniles. For this phase of the program, the focus is narrower and deeper, with the program purpose being to “contribute to building safer communities and reducing overcrowding in prisons”. To achieve this purpose, the project has three main project strategic outcomes: 1) The justice system is managed for more effective pre-trial arrangements, use of non-custodial sentencing and improved prisons; 2) Women, youth and children are safer and communities have less crime; and 3) Communities, police, courts and prisons use evidence to support policy and management of justice. The key strategies to be implemented to support these outcomes are based on a partnership approach with RGC.

1.2 Structure of Six-Monthly Progress Report

CCJAP has three thematic end-of-partnership outcomes and a management component. The three thematic outcomes have been broken-down into seven intermediate outcomes (Table 1-1).

Table 1-1 Breakdown of end-of-partnership outcomes into intermediate outcomes

End-of-partnership outcomes	Intermediate outcomes
1. The justice system is managed for more effective pre-trial arrangements, use of non-custodial sentencing and improved prisons	1a. Community understands and begins to support non-custodial sentencing 1b. Courts and police pilot more effective pre-trial options and non-custodial sentencing 1c. Improved custody for prison detainees
2. Women, youth and children are safer and communities have less crime	2a. Community works better together to demand and deliver safety 2b. Police engage with community and respond to their safety needs 2c. Cambodians have greater awareness of the law, and their legal rights and responsibilities
3. Communities, police, courts and prisons use evidence to support policy and management of justice	3. Justice sector uses strengthened systems for evidence-based management

This report is structured to provide information related to the progress against the budget and annual work-plan as well as towards each intermediate outcome during this reporting period, and the potential issues and challenges lying ahead under each theme. The progress of capital works is reported separately in Chapter 3. Some progress of outcomes generated from CCJAP’s interventions during 2013 is also included, since outcome results normally take longer time to realise.

2 PROGRESS OF PROJECT IMPLEMENTATION

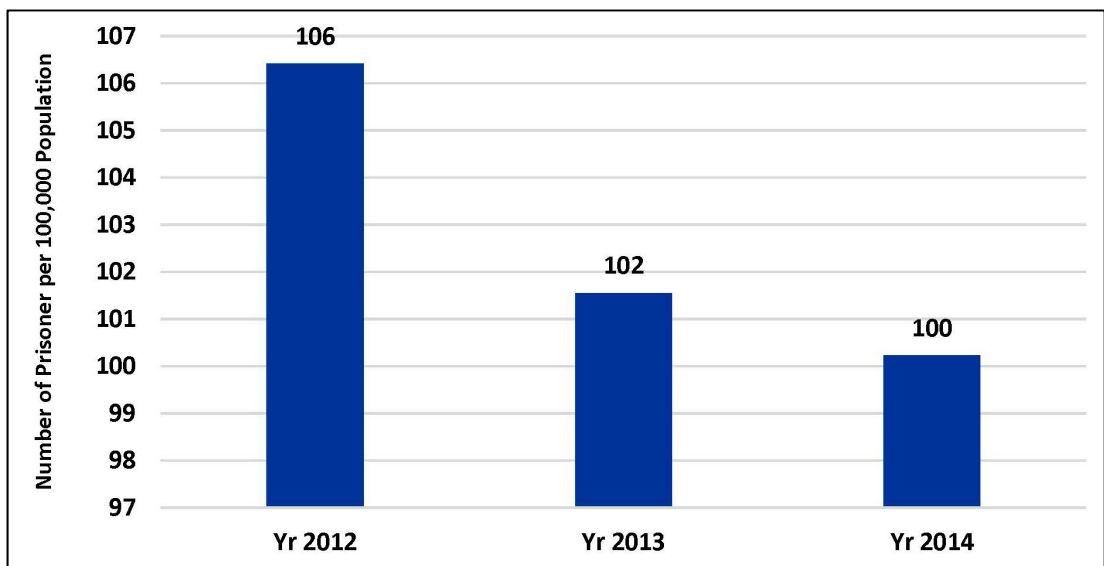

The progress reported below is made against the second CCJAP annual work-plan, covering the period from July 2014 to June 2015, which was approved by the National Management Board (NMB) in its third meeting on 26 June 2014. The project has implemented this annual work-plan for nine months at the time of this progress report.

The goal of CCJAP is: Prosperous, safe and secure communities in Cambodia.

The purpose of CCJAP is: Contribute to building safer communities and reducing overcrowding in prisons.

Although the number of prisoners in custody in Cambodia shows a marginal increase from 15,031 prisoners in 2013 to 15,166 in 2014, the proportion of prisoners per 100,000 people decreased from 106 in 2012 to 101.6 in 2013, and to 100.2 in 2014 (Figure 2-1). CCJAP’s work to support prison overcrowding may have had some impact on this reduction; however, the lack of accurate data or the evaluation of management reforms makes it difficult to confirm any such assumption. During the period, CCJAP supported capacity development activities to improve prison procedures in prisoner sentence reduction; supported development of a prison management model; and supported other areas relating to prison health and rehabilitation (see section 2.1.3).

Figure 2-1 Number of prisoners per 100,000 population by year, 2012 to 2014

The reduction in prison overcrowding might have been much greater if the “pre-trial arrangement and use of non-custodial sentencing” theme had been successfully implemented. In this particular CCJAP thematic area, however, no discernible progress has been made since the project began. The number of pre-trial detainees has increased every year since 2012 (Figure 2-2). The failure of the implementation of this theme is due mainly to the lack of commitment and strategic direction by the Ministry of Justice (MoJ) (see sections 2.1.1 and 2.1.2 for detailed report).

2.1 End of Program Outcome 1: The Justice System is Managed for More Effective Pre-trial Arrangements, Use of Non-custodial Sentencing and Improved Prisons

2.1.1 Intermediate Outcome 1a: Community Understands and Begins to Support Non-custodial Sentencing

No significant progress was made towards achieving this intermediate outcome during the reporting period. This was due in part to the fact that H.E. Ith Rady, who is the sole MoJ official tasked with working to develop change in this area, was elected as a member of the Supreme Council of Magistracy. His role in the implementation of alternative sentencing will have to be transferred to another official at the MoJ; however, CCJAP has not yet been notified of any formal replacement.

The effectiveness of implementation and sustainability in this intermediate outcome as well as Intermediate Outcome 1b remains a serious issue. Firstly, there is still a lack of human resources and government funding, exacerbated by the departure of H.E. Ith Rady, who collaborated with international donors and NGOs and undertook the work with little support from within the MoJ. Although H.E. Chin Malin has been officially assigned to chair the Secretariat for Legal and Judicial Reform, the transition has been slow and, based on the discussion at a meeting of the Technical Working Group for Legal and Judicial Reform held on 27 February 2015, it will likely take until June 2015 for the secretariat to produce its annual work-plan that consolidates all areas of legal and judicial reform. It is possible that alternative sentencing may be included in the work-plan; however, it is not yet clear how responsibility for alternative sentencing will be transitioned from H.E. Ith Rady and how the Alternative Sentencing Technical Working Group (ASTWG) will continue its functions.

Secondly, the ASTWG, which was established in October 2011, has not yet become fully functional. Its members have met only once since the current phase of CCJAP began, and there has been no strategic leadership or direction provided by the working group. Thirdly, there has not been any explicit indication that alternative sentencing will be included in the priority list of the RGC or MoJ to be financed and implemented. Although alternative sentencing has been endorsed in the Joint Monitoring Indicators, the annual action plan is not expected to be completed until June 2015 for the implementation of legal and judicial reform as a whole. Also, any likely activities and programs remain uncertain. Finally, the three circulars issued in January 2014 and efforts to date to disseminate them have not fully addressed the core issues such as public opinion, necessary cooperation among justice institutions, and the lack of facilities and services for rehabilitation and reintegration. As a result, courts remain reluctant to make alternative sentencing decisions and there is no indication that the ASTWG is working on the development of other guidelines and procedures.

2.1.2 Intermediate Outcome 1b: Courts and Police Pilot More Effective Pre-trial Options and Non-custodial Sentencing

Progress was stagnant toward achieving this intermediate outcome during the period. The only highlight was the successful integration of non-custodial sentencing into the Joint Monitoring Indicators. However, transition and actual implementation has remained remote as the Secretariat for Judicial and Legal Reform announced at the Technical Working Group for Legal and Judicial Reform meeting on 27 February 2015 that the planning process would have to take until June 2015. Nevertheless, CCJAP has and will continue to – as indicated in the past and current annual implementation plan and budget – support the MoJ’s demand for courts and police piloting more effective pre-trial options and non-custodial sentencing, if requests for support are linked to specific inputs and outputs, time-bound and best value for money.

CCJAP included in its current work-plan support for coordination meetings among justice sector agencies (also known as Police-Court-Prison meetings). These meetings are regarded as an important platform for ongoing dialogues to improve justice services. However, since the approval of the second CCJAP work-plan and budget, and despite the fact that the CCJAP alternative sentencing adviser has worked to encourage the MoJ to implement these funded activities, CCJAP has not received any requests from MoJ to support these coordination meetings and no meetings have been held.

On the whole, no progress has been made towards this intermediate outcome. While CCJAP continues to contribute to and support the MoJ’s effort for improved enforcement of alternative sentencing, the effectiveness of this theme really is dependent on the commitment and leadership of MoJ and the ASTWG. The Secretariat for Legal and Judicial Reform must start moving reform to the next level. The ASTWG must become more proactive and take ownership in effective enforcement of legal provisions governing pre-trial options and non-custodial sentencing. It is therefore important for the ASTWG to develop a clear strategic framework and action plan, and allocate adequate human and financial resources.

2.1.3 Intermediate Outcome 1c: Improved Custody for Prison Detainees

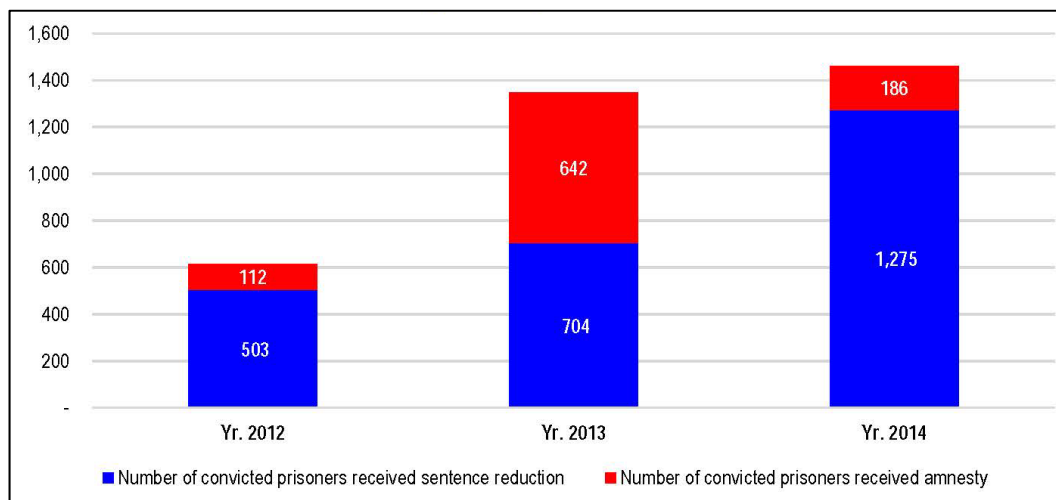

During this reporting period, CCJAP continued to support the General Department of Prisons (GDoP) in the improvement of prison management. This included co-financing a workshop on the prison management model; co-funding a training on prisoner education and rehabilitation policies; supporting monitoring of the performance of prison health posts in relation to the guideline on Minimum Package Activities for Health Posts; and supporting application of prison sentence reduction and amnesty.

CCJAP partly financed GDoP to organise a workshop to finalise its prison management model policy. The workshop drew a total of 54 participants (of which 10 were female). Participants included prison chiefs, deputy chiefs and GDoP officials from provincial prisons and national correctional centres. The policy was finally approved and put into effect on 11 March 2015. The main criteria of the prison management model include standard management performance related to prison security and safety; prisoner health and humane treatment; prisoner development and rehabilitation programs; and integration of low-risk prisoners into communities. The objective of the introduction of this new policy was to promote better prison management to meet these criteria.

CCJAP also partly financed GDoP to conduct one training session on prisoner education and rehabilitation policies with 36 senior prison officer participants (of which 7 were female) from provincial prisons and national correctional centres. Post-training field monitoring was conducted in 16 prisons in 15 provinces (Kampong Thom, Preah Vihear, Oddar Mean Chey, Siem Reap, Banteay Meanchey, Battambang, Pailin, Pursat, Kampong Chhnang, Prey Veng, Kampong Cham, Kratie, Stung Treng, Rattanakiri, and Mondulkiri) in order to assess the performance of those prisons in the application of prisoner education and rehabilitation policies. The areas of monitoring observations included prisoner education and rehabilitation, prisoner amnesty administration, sentence reduction control, prison security and safety, prisoner health and humane treatment. The monitoring team found that 14 out of the 16 visited prisons had fully applied the policies, while 2 provincial prisons needed further direction. According to the GDoP, the implementation of prisoner sentence reduction and amnesty procedure in 2014 was better than in 2013 (CCJAP financed a workshop to strengthen the implementation of this procedure in 2013). The number of prisoners who received sentence reduction and amnesty has increased during the past two years from 615 (5% of total number of convicted prisoners) in 2012 to 1,346 (12%) in 2013 and 1,461 (14%) in 2014 (Figure 2-3).

CCJAP continued to conduct post-training field monitoring on the application of the national guidelines on Minimum Package Activities by 16 provincial prison health posts in 15 provinces (Kampong Thom, Preah Vihear, Oddar Mean Chey, Siem Reap, Banteay Meanchey, Battambang, Pailin, Pursat, Kampong Chhnang, Prey Veng, Kampong Cham, Kratie, Stung Treng, Ratanakiri, and Mondulkiri). The monitoring observations included a wide range of prison health-related activities such as application of guidelines on medical admission through releases, outpatients, patient transfer, infection control, etc. The monitoring mission found that 10 out of the 16 visited prisons (these being Kampong Thom, Siem Reap, Banteay Meanchey, Battambang, Pursat, Kampong Chhnang, Prey Veng, Kampong Cham, Kratie, and Stung Treng) have fully complied with the national guideline on Minimum Package Activities for health posts. These findings were reported to GDoP for further actions in relation to the six prisons that are not fully complying with the policies.

Another promising outcome achieved following CCJAP support in 2013 is related to the mobilisation of health service support to provincial prisons. In late 2013, CCJAP supported a GDoP inter-agency health service meeting at some provincial prisons. In 2014, the provincial prisons have continued to regularly organise this kind of coordination meeting, and some provincial prisons (such as Kampong Thom, Siem Reap and Banteay Meanchey) have mobilised more support from local government health services for their prisons (Table 2-1). However, in Ratanakiri and Mondulkiri provincial prisons there has been little or no support from NGOs. It is reported that the NGO that used to provide this support to these prisons lost its donor funding and has since ceased its activities in early 2015.

CCJAP also provided technical support to the Prison Health Working Group and National Center for Tuberculosis and Leprosy Control (CENAT) to develop annual work-plans and budget for 2015 for prison tuberculosis (TB) control and treatment. This annual budget will become an integral part of the annual budget of the Ministry of Health in supporting prison TB nationally. With this integration of prison health activities into its annual budget, the Ministry of Health will ensure the availability of resources and materials to support provincial prison health posts to combat TB and leprosy.

All prison capital works financed by CCJAP with carry-over funds from 2013 are now under construction. All the capital works focus on improving conditions for detainees, with work underway on prison health post construction at Mondulkiri, Ratanakiri and Svay Rieng prisons; and prison security fence construction in Svay Rieng, Battambang and Kampong Spue (please refer to Chapter 3 of this report for detailed information related to capital work progress).

In conclusion, progress has been made in this area of CCJAP activity, particularly in relation to the improvement of prison conditions through prisoner sentence reduction and amnesty, strengthening the application of the Guideline on a Minimum Package of Activities for Health Posts (approved by the Ministry of Health), application of prison management model and mobilising more health services (especially for prisoners with HIV/AIDS and TB) and agencies for provincial prisons. Some progress has been made in prison management relating to prisoner sentence reduction and amnesty, as evidenced by the increasing number of prisoners obtaining sentence reduction and amnesty for two consecutive years (Figure 2-3) since 2012 (the year before CCJAP intervention began). GDoP has also demonstrated its commitment to improved prison management through implementation of its recently approved prison management model.

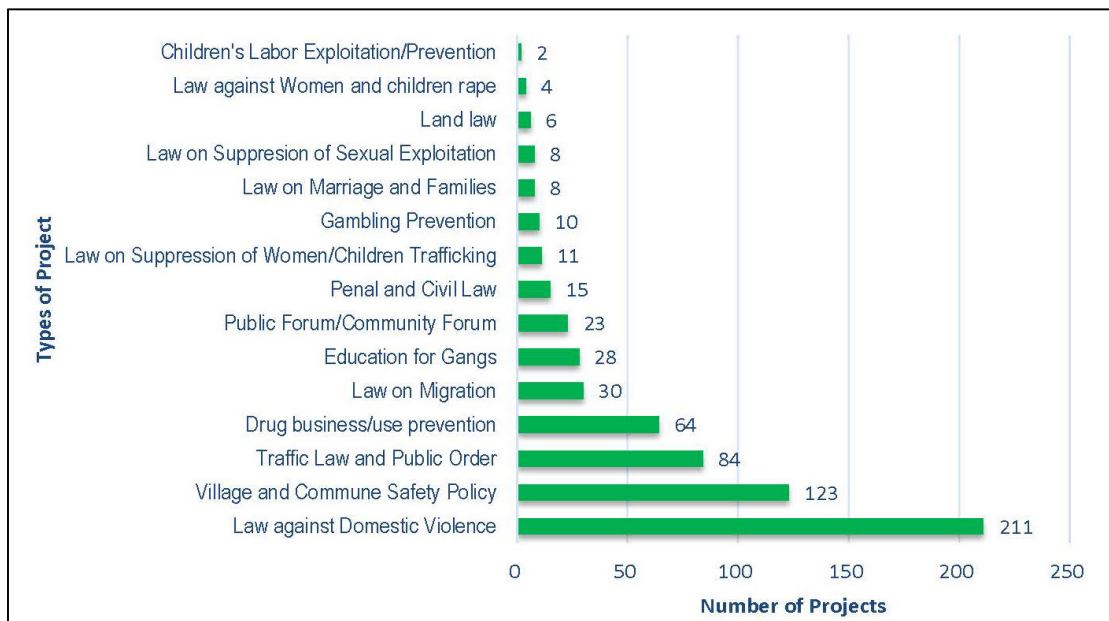

2.2 End of Program Outcome 2: Women, Youth and Children are Safer and Communities Have Less Crime

2.2.1 Intermediate Outcome 2a: Community Works Better Together to Demand and Deliver Safety

During the reporting period, CCJAP continued to implement its commune funding for crime prevention and community safety (CPCS) activities (AUD800 per commune per year), with a focus on supporting locally identified priority safety and crime prevention activities. The selection of CPCS projects to submit for CCJAP partnership support was predominantly made based on the priorities listed under the Commune Investment Program and the CCJAP menu of options. During this six-month reporting period, CCJAP funded a total of USD152,106 from its Partnership Support Fund to implement 627 CPCS projects that benefited a total of 42,115 people (of which 22,708 were female). These CPCS projects covered a wide range of community awareness raising and education on laws and local safety issues such as drugs, gambling, illegal trafficking, domestic violence, and other priority areas. Approximately 33% (by value) of the CCJAP-funded CPCS projects addressed prevention of gender-based violence (GBV) such as domestic violence, sexual exploitation, rape, child labour trafficking, and women/children trafficking (Figure 2-4) – a larger percentage than addressed any other issue. This continues the trend from previous reporting periods.

2.2.2 Intermediate Outcome 2b: Police Engage with Community and Respond to their Safety Needs

The total of 627 CPCS projects that cost USD152,106 throughout 334 target communes of the nine CCJAP-partner provinces, during this reporting period, were contracted to 12 different Project Implementing Agencies (PIAs) such as police, Office of Women’s Affairs, Office of Social Affairs, Commune Committee for Supporting Women and Children, etc. More than 57% of CPCS projects were delivered by police at provincial, district and commune levels. This is similar to the situation reported in last six-monthly progress report (April–September 2014), and reflects a role for police engagement in CPCS activities at the commune level. District Office of Women’s Affairs officials were also seen as the important key actors in programs targeting the prevention of GBV through various awareness projects (see Figure 2-5).

Source: CCJAP Evaluation and Monitoring System

The Cambodian National Police (CNP), through its Department of Administrative Police Post Affairs (DAPPA), commenced a formal partnership with CCJAP to implement community policing across Cambodia. CCJAP management and DFAT representatives officially met the Commissioner General of National Police and his senior executives to discuss the project key priorities and future support to CNP on community policing and GBV. The Commissioner General has shown his strong commitment to work closely with CCJAP, especially on strengthening commune Police Posts to improve community safety and reduce GBV, and agreed on a program of cooperation that will be supported by Australia beyond the conclusion of the CCJAP program in June 2016.

CCJAP has begun work with DAPPA to identify and progress a number of activities leading toward the commencement of effective community policing at commune level. With CCJAP financial support, DAPPA has successfully organised and completed nine one-day provincial workshops on Strengthening of Police Posts for Community Safety. A total of 1,338 provincial, district, and commune police officer participants from the nine CCJAP partner provinces attended the workshops.

Following the completion of the nine provincial workshops, the CNP committed to finance a National Workshop to introduce the Management of Police Post Affairs and Community Policing Concept. This National Workshop will be technically supported by CCJAP and presided over by H.E. General Neth Saveoun. All provincial commissioners and deputy commissioners in charge of the 25 provinces; district/municipality police inspectors of the 194 districts; and other participants from concerned departments from the Ministry of Interior (MoI) will be invited to attend the workshop.

During the reporting period, CCJAP has also continued to provide technical assistance to DAPPA to organise and deliver four-day training sessions on the role and responsibilities of Police Posts. These sessions were held in Kampot, Kep, Preah Sihanouk, and Koh Kong provinces, with a total of 269 commune police post participants. These training sessions were financed totally by CNP's own resources. The topics of the training courses included: the Role and Duties of Police Posts; Strengthening Police Posts for Community Safety; Effective Community Engagement; Police Discipline; and Operational Planning.

DAPPA has a mandate to provide technical support and capacity building to police posts administration through provincial police commissions, and CCJAP worked during the period to support the development of DAPPA's capacity to identify and implement reforms to their structure so that community policing can be effectively launched in Cambodia. Support and technical assistance provided by CCJAP team members resulted in the approval of a revised structure of DAPPA that was approved by the CNP. This revised structure reflects international best practice in this area and will provide the CNP with a more focused ability to implement, monitor, and evaluate community policing within the CNP. DAPPA, therefore, should be well prepared to take lead in the implementation of the community-policing initiative across Cambodia, starting from the designing phase through managing to rolling out this initiative nationally.

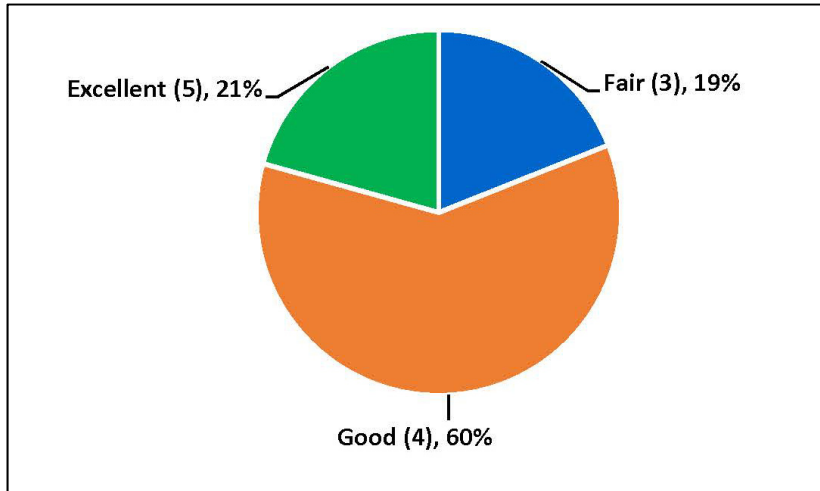

2.2.3 Intermediate Outcome 2c: Cambodians have Greater Awareness of the Law, their Legal Rights and Responsibilities

CCJAP continued to work well with sub-national counterparts at both provincial and district level to support the target commune authorities in the nine CCJAP partner provinces. The 26 provincial coordinators and 39 district focal points worked well with CCJAP provincial staff and with commune councils and the PIAs to identify, screen and select CPCS priority project proposals from the Commune Investment Program for CPCS funding through the Partnership Support Fund.

A total of 627 CPCS projects were funded from October 2014 to March 2015. All the CCJAP-funded CPCS projects were awareness-raising projects related to laws and prevention of domestic violence, drug abuse, gambling, human trafficking, safe migration, the penal code, the traffic law, education for persons engaged in gang activities, and the Village-Commune Safety Policy (VCSP). According to CCJAP's second annual work-plan (covering the period July 2014 to June 2015), CPCS under this Intermediate Outcome area has made adequate progress for this reporting period.

CPCS activities were monitored and evaluated using an internal CCJAP evaluation and monitoring tool with a 5-scale rating system (excellent, good, fair, poor, and very poor) that was delivered to participants in CPCS-funded activities. The results of this evaluation show that more than 80% of the CPCS project respondents (total of 295 respondents) reported "Good" and "Excellent" awareness improvement as a result of attending the CPCS awareness raising projects. The other 19% of the respondents reported "Fair" awareness improvement, and no respondent reported "Poor" or "Very Poor" (Figure 2-6).

In the area of child protection, the CCJAP Gender Adviser gave a presentation on the DFAT Child Protection Policy to all staff members during the CCJAP team meeting on 8 December 2014. The CCJAP senior and provincial officers were then instructed to pass on this Child Protection Policy to their respective counterparts during their regular meetings in the nine CCJAP partner provinces. CCJAP has also monitored the activities of its sub-contractors who engage in providing services under CCJAP funding system to ensure that they are aware of and comply with the Child Protection Policy requirements contained in their sub-contract agreements.

2.3 End of Program Outcome 3: Communities, Police, Courts and Prisons use Evidence to Support Policy and the Management of Justice

2.3.1 Intermediate Outcome 3: Justice Sector uses Strengthened Systems for Evidence-based Management

CCJAP continued to provide support to three agencies (CNP, GDoP and MoJ) under this outcome area, to improve their data management and to improve their use of information derived from those data to support evidence-based management. The level of progress made in this respect varies from one agency to another depending on their respective commitment and leadership capacity. Six out of the eight expected outputs included in the second CCJAP annual work-plan and budget were accomplished during this 9-month period of implementation. Progress towards Intermediate Outcome 3 during this reporting period includes the following.

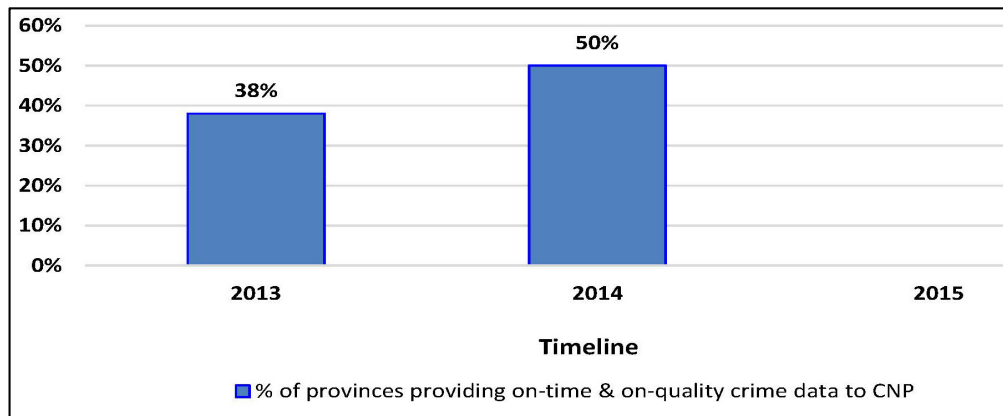

Cambodia National Police: CNP has made progress in making use of its crime statistics and operational data to support strategic and operational decisions. This can be seen in the use of data under the Performance Assessment Contest Policy (PACP) endorsed by MoI on 18 July 2014 and implemented through a national workshop to disseminate this policy to all 25 provincial and national performance assessment contest councils on 5 September 2014 (refer to the previous six-monthly progress report for detailed information about this workshop). The PACP provides the CNP with an opportunity to use data to assess progress and it has been useful in providing the CNP with evidence of data shortcomings and potential areas for improvement.

CCJAP has supported the CNP to monitor the quality and timeliness of crime data submitted by provincial police commissariats to CNP on a quarterly basis. The percentage of provincial police commissariats providing on-time and on-quality crime data to CNP increased from 38% in 2013 to 50% in 2014 (Figure 2-7).

CCJAP continued its support to the CNP to upgrade the CNP’s electronic crime database software, with the inclusion of a number of new report functions in the system. These include functions relating to information and data on victims and suspects, functions relating to investigation, and functions relating to information on the results of crime reduction initiatives. In addition, CCJAP has begun a process to support the CNP to safeguard its crime data through the installation of network security equipment and lightning protection systems in all 25 provincial police headquarters and two national police headquarters. The procurement process for this equipment has been completed and the successful suppliers have been selected. For the time being, the CNP and the contractors are working on the plan for installing the lightning protection system and data security protection equipment in two national CNP headquarters and 25 provincial police headquarters throughout Cambodia.

Figure 2-7 Percentage of provincial police commissariats providing crime data on-time and on-quality to CNP from 2013 to 2014

In addition to supporting the CNP crime data system, during this reporting period the CCJAP Managing for Development Results (MfDR) adviser also provided technical support to CNP’s second strategic planning process, in response to a request from the CNP Deputy Commissioner General, Lt. Gen. Kirt Chantharith. The Deputy Commissioner General accepted that the 60% implementation achieved during the first strategic plan was due to limited involvement and understanding of the CNP lower units about the strategic plan objectives (Phnom Penh Post, Police admit trouble at top, Taing Vida, 10 December 2014). Therefore, in this second CNP strategic planning process, CCJAP supported and mentored a more participatory approach.

This technical support included formal training on overall strategic planning concepts and processes on 9 July 2014, followed by several periodic on-the-job training inputs to senior police officers of the Department of Planning and Reporting during the preparation of the second strategic plan for 2015–2019. CCJAP staff were asked to support a senior CNP meeting (attended by all provincial commissioners and central department general directors) with a resource person to provide technical inputs (related to planning process and elements) in the process of reviewing the draft CNP second strategic plan for 2015–2019. On 17 February 2015, CCJAP also joined in a half-day training on planning concepts and preparation of action plans, providing a resource person as requested by CNP. A total of 138 senior police officers from all 25 provincial commissariats and the 6 CNP central departments attended this training session.

General Department of Prisons: Unlike CNP, GDoP has not yet shown any indication of making use of prisoner data for supporting their strategic decision-making. The work in this area so far has focused on improving the quality of data reporting only. During this reporting period, CCJAP partially financed a GDoP workshop on strengthening data report quality and prison management. This workshop was attended by a total of 77 senior prison officials (4 female) from the 27 prisons throughout Cambodia. This two-day workshop resulted in a number of recommendations, including: the creation of a unified report system for all prisons; improvement in the areas of cooperation and coordination between court and prison managements in resolving issues of missing or deficient documentation of prisoners; improved prison management based on the prison law and procedures; and provision of vocation and skill training to prison officers.

CCJAP followed up with GDoP on the timeliness and quality of prisoner data submitted by all provincial prisons and national correctional centres to GDoP. It was found that the percentage of provincial prisons submitting on-time and on-quality prisoner data to GDoP increased slightly from 0% in 2013 to 7% in 2014.

Ministry of Justice: MoJ developed a court register (case management system) and launched it during 2011. The purpose of this court register is to monitor the flow of cases handled by judges, prosecutors and court officials. This court register was designed to ensure transparent management of cases and to allow the public to access all case files. CCJAP worked with the MoJ during the period, providing a dedicated adviser and funding support for agreed reform activities. However, CCJAP has not been able to access any data from the provincial courts or from the Ministry since CCJAP began in 2013. There was no identifiable progress made in this area during the reporting period.

To date, the court register has not been able to perform and accomplish its objectives. In the period, CCJAP responded to MoJ requests and partially financed a workshop on the identification of issues and challenges in the implementation of the court register. This workshop was attended by a total of 62 court presidents and prosecutors (of which 7 were female). Challenges discussed included: matters relating to the court register administration; lack of administrative support staff; lack of office space; lack of budget; limited cooperation from judges and deputy prosecutors to work with the registration officials to update case file records; limited knowledge/capacity of registration officials; and limited space for storing the case file documents. The workshop participants requested MoJ to take into consideration all of the challenges and also proposed that the MoJ develop a unified electronic registration system. None of these recommendations have been actioned to date.

CCJAP supported the MoJ to organise a National Conference on the outcomes of the court register application on 23 December 2014 in Phnom Penh. This National Conference was chaired by the Minister and drew participation by 179 court presidents, judges, prosecutors, court clerks, registration officials, and lawyers (of which 29 were female). MoJ was not able to provide detailed information related to the outcomes of the conference or how the recommendations made in the conference could be used to promote further improvement within their court register reform program. Future requests for support to this aspect will need to be carefully evaluated against this and other funded workshops to ensure that CCJAP funding is used effectively.

In conclusion, CCJAP's work with the GDoP and MoJ has not produced any tangible evidence of progress in this outcome area. The CNP has shown initial progress towards an improved use of data to support their decision-making, such as applying the data (indicators) in their second strategic plan for 2015–2019 and assessing the VCSP performance; however, this data has not been used widely or strategically by the organisation. The quality and accuracy of the data and the CNP's capacity to make effective use of the data for strategic decision-making and reporting all remain weak.

3 CAPITAL WORKS

After signing the contract in mid-September 2014, the construction of 15 sub-projects in eight provincial prisons has made significant progress and has met the milestone of the capital works plan (Table 3-1). Since late October 2014, CCJAP has made several site inspections and quality assurance monitoring missions to all 15 sub-project prison projects to assess the progress and ensure that capital work construction has progressed in accordance with the technical specifications, contract and milestone dates, and with the high satisfaction of the prison directors, prison staff and prisoners.

In late December, two capital work projects – one in Siem Reap (installation of water tank for health post and improved solar system) and one in Battambang (security fence) – were completed, followed in January by construction of a public toilet for family visits at Kampong Cham prison.

In March 2015, Mondulkiri and Rattanakiri prison projects (new health post and public toilet) were also completed, followed by the completion of the projects at Preah Vihear prison (family visit and lawyer room, including improvement of sewage system) and Svay Rieng prison (family visit and lawyer room, health post and security fence).

During this reporting period, payment also has been made to Visitanukar for a total of USD238,993.85 or 95% of the total project value, with 5% retained for the 8-month defect liability period.

According to the CCJAP-funded Police Post Impact Survey report completed in February 2014, police posts were found to have a positive impact on community safety outcomes and to contribute to the improvement of police services at the communes where there are police posts built. CNP initially proposed 18 communes to have new police posts to be constructed in 6 provinces. The NMB reached an agreement with DFAT to allocate a percentage of the CCJAP Small-Scale Infrastructure and Equipment Fund budget from the CCJAP July 2014 – June 2015 capital works budget (the second phase of capital works) for 16 police posts construction sub-projects (Table 3-2) and three sub-projects for capital works in two provincial prisons (juvenile and female accommodation cells in Oddar Meanchey and Pailin) and one correctional centre (two buildings of family visit and lawyer rooms in National Correctional Center 1). The agreed list is subject to change depending on the availability of CCJAP financial resources allocated for the 2015/2016 financial year.

In December, CCJAP with its CNP counterpart completed its procurement process and signed a contract with Group 4 Engineering and Architect to conduct feasibility studies, develop technical drawings and specifications, and conduct bidding processes for these second phase capital works projects.

A team composed of members from CCJAP, Group 4 Engineering and Architect and DAPPA (which represents CNP in the Police Post project) conducted a feasibility study and scope assessment of all proposed police posts in these six provinces. Based on the data from the feasibility study and assessment, technical documents and drawings have been prepared and shared with stakeholders (CNP, GDoP and CCJAP) for review and comment.

In March 2015, two procurement committees for prison and Police Post capital works sub-projects were established and approved/appointed by NMB. These committees are composed of CNP representatives, DAPPA management, GDoP management, CCJAP team leader and staff, and technical staff from these respective institutions. These committees are responsible for making the final decisions for all procurement work under CNP and GDoP with CCJAP funding.

4 MANAGEMENT

During this reporting period, CCJAP advisers, together with their respective counterparts, focused mainly on the implementation of the NMB-approved second annual work-plan and Resource and Implementation Schedule covering the period from July 2014 to June 2015. Most of the expected outputs within the approved work-plan were delivered, with the remainder expected to be completed within the final three months of the planning year.

On 21 January 2015, the CCJAP NMB held its regular meeting to review progress of the project's implementation and the future focus of CCJAP for 2016. The NMB approved a recommendation that the project phasing out begin in April 2015, with the closure of the first three CPCS-funded activities, with the remaining six provinces to follow at three monthly intervals (three provinces at each time).

CCJAP successfully filled three positions (one CPCS Provincial Adviser, one CPCS Officer and one Capital Works Adviser) that had been vacant since early 2014. All three staff members were inducted to CCJAP administration, project working procedures and systems. They were also familiarised with the partnership working approach, which they have to apply in working with their respective counterparts.

CCJAP conducted one team meeting on 8 December 2014. This meeting concentrated on the new shift of CCJAP focus and the formation of a GBV team within CCJAP to support the preparation of the GBV issues study in six communes of three provinces (Kampot, Kandal and Kratie). The study was conducted and a report prepared regarding the causative and contributing factors surrounding GBV issues. CCJAP engaged a short-term consultant, Mr. Wayne Rotherham, as the Ending Violence against Women coordinator, to support the development of CNP responses to GBV as part of a broader community policing initiative.

CCJAP supported NMB focal points to prepare two NMB quarterly reports (June–July 2014 and October–December 2014) in NMB format and one CCJAP quarterly input-to-output report (October–December 2014) in the DFAT format.

4.1 Progress of Implementing Exit Strategy

The exit strategy was approved by the NMB at its January 2015 meeting and progress has been made towards closing the provincial CPCS activities. The program has met with DFAT and discussed options of an earlier closure of the CPCS activities. DFAT has written to the NMB partnership proposing that the CCJAP program streamlines its focus from the existing three outcome areas to focus on only the improvement of community safety and crime prevention. Progress is on track to complete the exit and closure of the CCJAP program on time and under URS-DFAT contract budget.

4.2 Risk Management

In March 2015, the Risk Management Plan was revised as part of the 2015–2016 CCJAP annual planning process and is available within that document.

5 BUDGET AND EXPENDITURE

The figures in Table 5-1 and Figure 5-1 below reflect actual/forecast expenditure by project year. At time of writing, the Year 4 budget is under review and subject to further discussion with DFAT.

6 MONITORING AND EVALUATION

6.1 Monitoring

During the reporting period, the CCJAP monitoring system was implemented as planned in the Performance Assessment Framework (Program Design Document Annex 5) and Performance Management Plan. The MfDR team conducted data collection, tabulated data and prepared data analysis. The results of the analysis were prepared in charts to be included in the CCJAP output-to-outcome six-monthly progress report.

Each thematic adviser working at national level was tasked to directly monitor the activities implemented under his/her respective theme with his/her counterpart agencies. Since the activities they have implemented so far were workshops or training, each adviser was instructed to collect data related to this training/workshop, to enter the data in a table (see Appendix A) and to send this data to the MfDR team for consolidation and further analysis. In addition, each adviser was obliged to prepare a training/workshop report at the completion of each training activity.

CCJAP operates under a philosophy that in order to ensure sustainability of activities, all activities should be part funded by counterpart agencies. As a result of this practice, approximately 41% of training and workshop total cost during this report period was contributed by counterpart government agencies.

All CCJAP provincial officers and their counterparts are directly responsible for monitoring and assessing at least 20% of CPCS implemented projects, through direct observation and interview with project direct beneficiaries and other project stakeholders. Furthermore, each provincial officer is obliged to tabulate CPCS project data (Appendix B) and send the data to the CCJAP Office regularly.

At the national level, the MfDR team regularly consolidates CPCS project data from the nine CCJAP partner provinces and uses this table to track CPCS project progress. The national CPCS adviser uses this table to follow up the progress and to take necessary actions to support implementation, while the finance section uses the table to track payments.

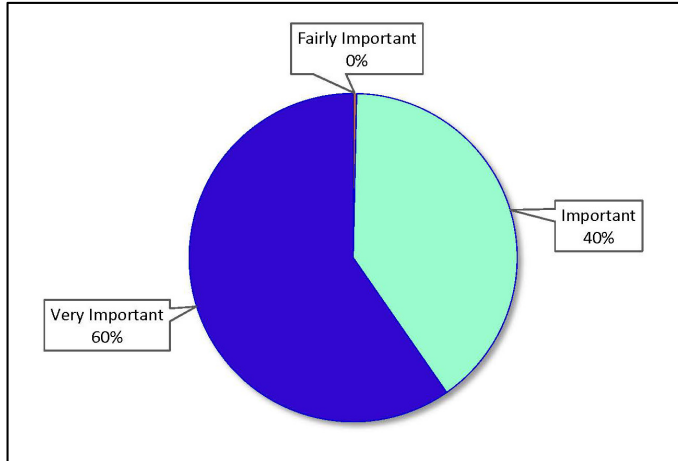

CCJAP supported the NMB focal points to prepare two NMB quarterly reports (July–September 2014, and October–December 2014) in NMB format. The NMB reports are available in both English and Khmer. During this reporting period, CCJAP also prepared the October–December 2014 quarterly input-to-output report in URS format for DFAT.

6.2 Evaluation

CCJAP worked to assess the immediate outcome (effectiveness) of the CPCS project results through its monitoring and evaluation framework by collecting data from key counterparts (provincial coordinators, CCJAP advisers, commune councillors and direct participants). The collected data was sent to the MfDR team at the CCJAP national office and was analysed to interpret the results. During this reporting period, internal CCJAP assessment has revealed that 81% of respondents reported that they had “Good” and “Excellent” outcomes (improvement of their awareness from participating in the CPCS awareness sessions) after attending CPCS activities. The assessment also found that 60% of 295 responses from CCJAP CPCS-project stakeholders in the nine CCJAP partner provinces said that the awareness raising sessions are “Very Important”, 40% said “Important” and 0% said “Fairly Important” (Figure 6-1).

CCJAP has commissioned Angkor Research Co Ltd to conduct a survey of CPCS results in order to establish whether the CPCS awareness program has resulted in any attitudinal/behavioural changes after two years of implementation. The report of this survey will be completed in June 2015 and the results will be disseminated to support ongoing work by CCJAP to promote the increased use of commune investment funds by commune councils for community safety and crime prevention activities.

CCJAP thematic advisers, along with their respective counterparts, conducted periodical post-activity-completion monitoring in order to assess the progress and outcome results for certain CCJAP-funded activities. This approach is used not only to assess the effectiveness of the results, which are mostly delivered after implementation of all inter-related activities, but also to follow-up whether the results generated from the partnership approach are likely to be sustainable. For example, CCJAP advisers followed-up with GDoP on the compliance of provincial prisons with prisoner sentence reduction and amnesty procedures, the application of prison health posts, and the application of the prison management model. These statistics revealed that the number of convicted prisoners who received sentence reduction or amnesty had increased during each of the past two years (Figure 2-3). CCJAP worked with counterparts from the GDoP to provide evaluation feedback that enabled action to be taken for those prisons that had not fully complied with the guideline on Minimum Package of Health Post Activities.
