Executive Summary

The Cambodia Community Justice Assistance Partnership (CCJAP) has now entered its final year of operations as part of an ongoing and unbroken period of support to the Cambodian law and justice sector that began in 1997. CCJAP, which began on 1 April 2013, represents the final phase in this support, and will conclude on 30 June 2016. CCJAP is distinct from previous phases due to its narrower focus and concentration on crime prevention, community safety, reduced prison populations and improved conditions, and improved management through more effective use of information and information systems.

Progress during the first two and a half years of CCJAP has been mixed, with good progress identified under Component 2 ('Women, youth and children are safer and communities have less crime'), but little identifiable progress noted under Component 1 ('The justice system is managed for more effective pre-trial arrangements, use of non-custodial sentencing and improved prisons') and Component 3 ('Communities, police, courts and prisons use evidence to support policy and management of justice'). The lack of progress in Components 1 and 3 led the National Management Board (NMB) to approve in June 2015 the removal of activity expenditure to both of these component areas in the CCJAP cost and implementation schedule for the final year, other than funding to complete capital works commenced within the Cambodian prison system and the construction of police posts to support crime prevention and community safety.

In December 2014, the NMB also approved an exit strategy for the cessation of the Crime Prevention and Community Safety (CPCS) support activities at the commune level under Component 2, which previously provided annual funding of AUD800 per commune for approved CPCS activities. Following this decision, support to the nine partner provinces was progressively ceased, beginning with the closure of activities in the first three provinces in April 2015, a further three provinces in June 2015 and the final three provinces at the end of September 2015. Component 2 will continue with a focus on supporting community policing.

In this report, CCJAP will provide details of the outcomes of its support to the partnership against the NMB-approved reduced activity areas. Details will therefore be provided only relating to capital works under Component 1 and Component 2. There were no activities supported under Component 3 during this reporting period after discussions with counterparts and the NMB in late 2014 and the approval of the final year's cost and implementation schedule by the NMB in June 2015, removing all funding support for this component.

Component 1 Results – Capital Works

All capital work sub-projects in Phase I (Table 2) have been completed and handed over to counterpart organisations and are now being utilised operationally. Ninety five percent of the contract cost has been released to the engaged contractor, with five percent retained for the contracted defect liability period of six months, which is due to expire in mid-November 2015. Although CCJAP is not able to directly measure the extent of impact attributable to these capital work projects, the nature of the works (prison health post buildings, security fencing to allow greater time outside of cells, water storage and water pumping improvement) suggest that they will have a significant impact on the quality of life for persons incarcerated within the prisons.

The Capital Work Phase II (Table 3) has made steady progress, with some delays due to unforeseen issues such as land conflicts with local authorities (Projects No. 6, No. 10, and No. 19), failure of admission to prison (Project No. 3) and poor road accessibility due to seasonal flooding. These issues have largely been overcome and progress is on track to allow completion of all activities by the planned dates.

Component 2 Results – Crime Prevention and Community Safety

During this reporting period, six CCJAP partner provinces implemented CPCS projects. Kandal, Siem Reap and Kratie had been phased out in April 2015; three more were concluded in July and the final three closed at the end of September. During this reporting period, a total of 390 CPCS projects (USD81,360) were supported by CPCS funding, with topics including awareness-raising on law preventing domestic violence (38%), drug abuse, gambling and human trafficking, as well as safe migration, the penal code, the traffic law, education for persons engaged in gang activity, and the Village-Commune Safety Policy (the Royal Government of Cambodia policy related to community safety). The most frequently requested CPCS project type funded by CCJAP during the reporting period continued to be for activities related to the reduction of domestic violence (148 of 390 projects) followed by drug business/use prevention projects (54 of 390 projects) and other lesser priorities such as Village-Commune Safety Policy dissemination, and the traffic law and public order (Figure 1).

Internal CCJAP monitoring and evaluation of the CPCS activities conducted during the period identified that a total of 22,694 community members (of which 13,472 were female and 2,200 youth) benefited from these CPCS projects. Internal evaluations completed by participants revealed that after having attended CPCS dissemination meeting, 39% and 61% of 57 respondents rated improvement of their awareness as “Excellent” and “Good”, respectively. Approximately 98% of the respondents expressed that the awareness sessions were “Important” and “Very Important” (Figure 3).

Cumulatively, CCJAP’s work in the area of CPCS has achieved measurable results, not only from a quantitative perspective, but also qualitatively. Quantitatively, CCJAP has achieved the following results since the commencement of the CPCS activities in 2013:

- 2060 separate activities were conducted across nine provinces
- 134,681 persons attended CPCS activities at the commune level
- 31% of all commune requested activities related to reducing gender-based violence (GBV)
- 72,785 participants were female
- USD498,474.92 in program funds were expended in this activity.

Qualitatively, CCJAP achieved the following:

- 77% of participants reported their level of awareness improvement as either good or excellent (CCJAP internal evaluation data)
- 98% of participants reported the importance of the programs as either important or very important (CCJAP internal evaluation data)
- 84% of communes reported that they had begun to use their own funding in 2015 to continue the programs initiated by CCJAP (CCJAP rapid assessment of 115 communes supported by CCJAP)
- 93% of respondents surveyed by Angkor Research to assess the impact of the CPCS reported that the attitude of police had improved during the period of the CPCS activities (Angkor Research 2015)
- 77.8% of respondents surveyed by Angkor Research reported that they had noticed a change in accessibility of police services over the period, with 95% reporting improved accessibility (Angkor Research 2015)
- 98% of respondents surveyed by Angkor Research reported that police visibility had become improved during the previous 2 years (Angkor Research 2015)
- 87% of respondents surveyed by Angkor Research reported either slight (63%) or much improved (34%) police responsiveness.

Component 2 Results – Support to the Development of Community Policing

CCJAP has continued to provide support to strengthen the capacity of the Cambodian National Police (CNP) Department of Administrative Police Post Affairs (DAPPA), which is the CNP department responsible for implementing reform to the way in which police services are delivered at the commune level. In late 2014, CCJAP embarked on a program of engagement with DAPPA to develop and implement community policing within the country. During this reporting period, CCJAP has provided financial and technical assistances to CNP in organising 2 four-day trainings on the roles and responsibilities of Police Posts to a total of 180 participants (of which 3 were female) in Koh Kong and Pursat. CCJAP also co-financed, with the United Nations Office of the High Commissioner for Human Rights in Cambodia, a three-day training program (2–4 June 2015) on community policing to 35 CNP police officers from DAPPA and three provincial commissariats (Kandal, Kratie, Prey Veng). Following this training, CCJAP organised a four-day Training of Trainers on Community Policing Concepts and Crime Prevention for 24 DAPPA Officers (of which 3 were female) from 24 to 27 August 2015.

1.0 Introduction

1.1 Project Description

The Cambodia Community Justice Assistance Partnership (CCJAP) is an Australian-funded 3.5-year project operating from 2013 to 2016 to support the Royal Government of Cambodia (RGC) and its legal and judicial reform. Since 1997, Australia has provided financial and technical support to RGC in its legal and judicial reform efforts, with a focus on improving access to justice, with a particular emphasis on vulnerable groups such as women and juveniles. For this phase of the program, the focus is narrower and deeper, with a program goal of “Contributing to building safer communities, as well as sentencing and prison reform”. To achieve this purpose, the project has three main project strategic outcomes: 1) The justice system is managed for more effective pre-trial arrangements, use of non-custodial sentencing and improved prisons; 2) Women, youth and children are safer and communities have less crime; and 3) Communities, police, courts and prisons use evidence to support policy and management of justice. The key strategies to be implemented to support these outcomes are based on a partnership approach with RGC.

1.2 Structure of Six-monthly Progress Report

CCJAP has three thematic end-of-partnership outcomes and a management component. The three thematic outcomes have been broken-down into seven intermediate outcomes (Table 1).

Table 1 Breakdown of end-of-partnership outcomes into intermediate outcomes

End-of- partnership outcomes	Intermediate outcomes
The justice system is managed for more effective pre-trial arrangements, use of non-custodial sentencing and improved prisons	1a. Community understands and begins to support non-custodial sentencing 1b. Courts and police pilot more effective pre-trial options and non-custodial sentencing 1c. Improved custody for prison detainees
Women, youth and children are safer and communities have less crime	2a. Community works better together to demand and deliver safety 2b. Police engage with community and respond to their safety needs 2c. Cambodians have greater awareness of the law, and their legal rights and responsibilities
Communities, police, courts and prisons use evidence to support policy and management of justice	3. Justice sector uses strengthened systems for evidence-based management

This report is structured to provide information related to progress against budget and annual plan as well as towards each intermediate outcome. During this reporting period, Component 1 activities were phased out and funding for phase 3 was removed, on the direction of the National Management Board (NMB) (other than capital works under Component 1) and CCJAP redirected its support over thematic area 2 with a primary focus on supporting the Cambodian National Police (CNP) to develop its community policing initiative. This report, therefore, provides detail relating to Component 2 and the capital works conducted under Component 1 only.

2.0 Progress of Project Implementation

The progress reported below is made partly against the third CCJAP annual work plan, covering the period from July 2015 to June 2016, and the second CCJAP annual work plan and budget, covering the period from July 2014 to June 2015. The two work plans were approved by the NMB. It should be noted that during this reporting period, CCJAP has ceased its support to the two thematic areas (thematic area 1: pre-trial detention options and prison management, and thematic area 3: evidence to support policy and management of justice). The focus remains only on thematic area 2 (Women and children are safer and communities have less crime) and has been further narrowed down to supporting crime prevention through the development of the CNP and its Department of Administrative Police Post Affairs (DAPPA) led community policing approach.

The goal of CCJAP is: Prosperous, safe and secure communities in Cambodia.

The purpose of CCJAP is: Contribute to building safer communities and reducing overcrowding in prisons.

2.1 End of Program Outcome 1: The Justice System is Managed for More Effective Pre-trial Arrangements, Use of Non-custodial Sentencing and Improved Prisons

2.1.1 Intermediate Outcome 1a: Community Understands and Begins to Support Non-custodial Sentencing

During this reporting period (Apr–Sep 2015), no activities were undertaken under this area.

2.1.2 Intermediate Outcome 1b: Courts and Police Pilot More Effective Pre-trial Options and Non-custodial Sentencing

During this reporting period (Apr–Sep 2015), no activities were undertaken under this area.

2.1.3 Intermediate Outcome 1c: Improved Custody for Prison Detainees

Although CCJAP has not supported any direct capacity development activities to improve prison conditions for detainees under this component, the impact of CCJAP's capital works program in prisons (Capital work Phase II) includes the construction of buildings for juveniles and female prisoners in Uddor Meanchey and Pailin prisons and the construction of family visit and lawyer room in Correctional Centre 1, which all have the potential to contribute to the improvement of prison conditions for juvenile and female prisoners, as well as their human rights.

The 15 sub-projects commenced under Phase I of the capital works program have all been completed and handed over to the General Department of Prisons, and are now all under management of the respective prison authorities. (Please refer to chapter 3.0 of this report for detailed information related to capital work).

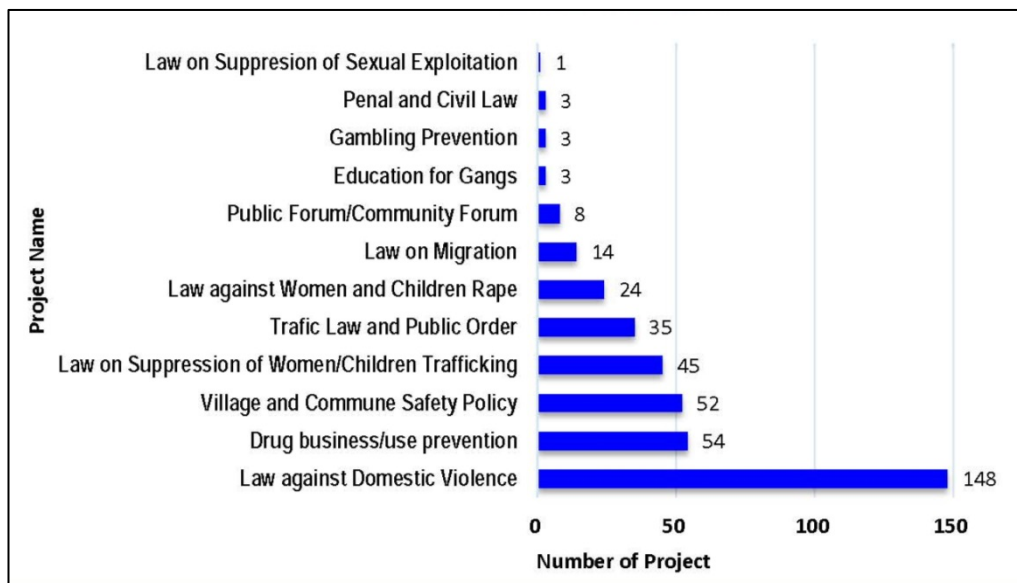

2.2 End of Program Outcome 2: Women, Youth and Children are Safer and Communities have Less Crime

2.2.1 Intermediate Outcome 2a: Community Works Better Together to Demand and Deliver Safety

The final six Crime Prevention and Community Safety (CPCS) partner provinces were concluded during this reporting period. From April to September 2015, a total of 390 CPCS projects (USD81,360) were selected for CPCS funding through the CPCS partnership support fund. CPCS projects were selected through a process that involved CCJAP provincial program officers providing support to target commune authorities to assist them to identify, screen, and select CPCS priority project proposals from Commune Investment Programs (the government-led, local participatory planning process applied by all commune councils across the country).

CPCS projects selected for this partnership support fund included: projects addressing the laws on preventing domestic violence; drug abuse; gambling; human trafficking; safe migration; the penal code; the traffic law; education for persons engaged in gang activity; and the Village-Commune Safety Policy (the RGC policy related to community safety). The most frequent CPCS project type funded by CCJAP during the reporting period was for domestic violence education (148 of 390 projects), followed by drug business/use prevention projects (54 of 390 projects) and other lower priorities such as Village-Commune Safety Policy dissemination, and the traffic law and public order (Figure 1).

2.2.2 Intermediate Outcome 2b: Police Engage with Community and Respond to their Safety Needs

CCJAP delivered its CPCS program by engaging directly with community located agencies and individuals who were contracted locally to provide inputs. The use of these Project Implementing Agencies (PIAs) allowed CCJAP to revise the way in which funds were managed provincially and reduce previous costs attributed to provincial overheads from 42% under the previous phase to an average of 15% under CCJAP. During this reporting period, there were nine PIAs involved in delivering CPCS projects to the communities in the six CCJAP partner provinces. Police agencies remained the highest PIA representation (around 46%) in terms of project value in delivering CPCS projects, with Women’s Affairs Agencies second at 39%.

Source: CCJAP Evaluation and Monitoring System

A total of 22,694 community members (of which 13,472 were female and 2,200 youth) benefited from the CPCS projects.

CCJAP has continued to provide support to strengthen the capacity of DAPPA/CNP. During this reporting period, CCJAP has provided financial and technical assistance to CNP to:

- Deliver 2 four-day trainings on the roles and responsibilities of Police Posts to a total of 180 participants (of which 3 were female): the first in Koh Kong in late April 2015 and the second in Pursat in early June 2015.

The key participants for these trainings were chiefs and deputy chiefs of police posts from those respective provinces

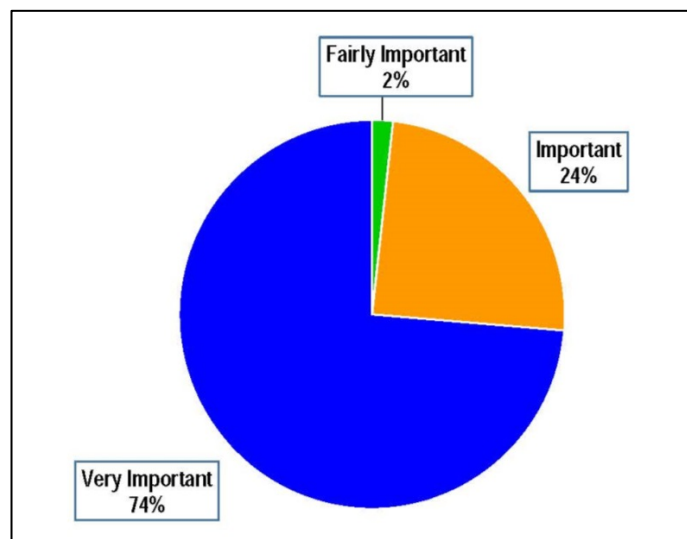

- Conduct a workshop in May 2015 to introduce the concepts of Community Policing. A total of 76 participants (of which 9 were female) attended from the CNP DAPPA in Kandal and Kratie provinces, along with CCJAP thematic advisers
- Co-fund and facilitate, with the United Nations Office of the High Commissioner for Human Rights in Cambodia, a three-day training program (2–4 June 2015) on community policing to 35 CNP police officers (of which 4 were women) from DAPPA and three provincial commissariats (Kandal, Kratie, Prey Veng)
- Organise a four-day Training of Trainers on Community Policing Concept and Crime Prevention for 24 DAPPA Officers (of which 3 were female) from 24 to 27 August 2015.

Following the above four-day training, CCJAP advisers worked with DAPPA counterparts to discuss and refine the training materials relating to Community Policing and Crime Prevention that will be used by DAPPA/CNP to conduct this type of training for the three agreed CCJAP partner provinces at the police post level. The training for the police posts is scheduled to commence in October 2015 and CCJAP has supported the CNP to develop a series of simple tools to facilitate the implementation of community policing processes at the commune level. All trainers are based at DAPPA and have attended the above training and will be supported by CCJAP Advisers who have adopted adult learning techniques, mentoring, role modelling and coaching to advance the capacity of these new CNP trainers as they deploy to the commune level.

2.2.3 Intermediate Outcome 2c: Cambodians have Greater Awareness of the Law, and their Legal Rights and Responsibilities

Among the 390 CPCS projects implemented during the period, 57 projects were selected for assessment through CCJAP's internal monitoring and evaluation system. The assessment results revealed that after having attended a CPCS dissemination meeting, 39% and 61% of 57 respondents rated improvement of their awareness as "Excellent" and "Good" respectively. Approximately 98% of the respondents expressed that the awareness sessions were "Important" and "Very Important" (Figure 3).

2.3 End of Program Outcome 3: Communities, Police, Courts and Prisons Use Evidence to Support Policy and the Management of Justice

2.3.1 Intermediate Outcome 3: Justice Sector uses Strengthened Systems for Evidence-based Management

During this reporting period (Apr–Sep 2015), no activities were undertaken under this area.

3.0 Capital Works

All capital work sub-projects in Phase I (Table 2) were completed and handed over to the management prison authorities. CCJAP has released payment of 95% of the contract cost to the engaged contractor, with another 5% retained for the Defect Liability Period of six months, which will expire in Mid-November 2015. If there are no defects identified or complaints raised from the counterparts, this final amount will be released to the contractors.

The procurement committees established to select bidders for the Phase II capital works (Table 3) selected two winning contractors (Vistanukar and Reaksmei Keomeas), who signed contracts in July 2015 and commenced works shortly after.

During this report period, the Phase II capital works have made steady progress by overcoming minor delays due to land conflicts with local authorities (Projects No. 6, No. 10, and No. 19), failure of admission to prison (Project No. 3) and poor road accessibility due to seasonal flooding. Table 3 below reflects the actual progress to-date against its original schedule.

Table 3 Capital works (Phase II)

No.	Location	Project	Project schedule	Actual Work Progress

18.	Prey Veng Province	Administrative Police Post building	85%	90%
19.	Prey Veng Province	Administrative Police Post building	85%	90%

At the current rate of progress, it is expected that some projects will be completed in mid-October 2015 and all projects will be completed by early November 2015, thereby allowing sufficient time for the expiration of the six-month defect period and final payment before the completion of CCJAP.

4.0 Management

CCJAP acted as NMB Secretariat to support the organisation of the fifth NMB Meeting on 22 June 2015 and provided updates to all NMB members regarding the progress of project activities, challenges and the new project direction. The NMB approved all recommendations and also discussed and approved the final CCJAP Cost and Implementation Schedule for July 2015 to June 2016 (Appendix A).

CCJAP also joined in and facilitated the discussion with Secretariat co-chair and DFAT in identifying a list of vehicles and office equipment to be handed over to the government agencies following the closure of the CPCS provincial offices. On 23 September 2015, a formal ceremony of asset handover to CNP was organised with participation from CNP senior officers, DFAT representatives, Australian Federal Police representatives and CCJAP staff members. The handed over assets include vehicles, laptops, LCD monitors etc. (Appendix D).

Two 3-month reports (Apr–June) in URS (now AECOM) and NMB formats were prepared and submitted to DFAT and NMB respectively. These two reports only emphasised the progress on activity to output level.

4.1 Exit Strategy – Closure Plan

During the period, URS (now AECOM) submitted a formal Exit Strategy – Closure Plan to DFAT. This was accepted and approved on 28 September 2015. This plan will form the basis for the final nine months of operations of CCJAP and will guide each step of the closure process. The Risk Management Plan was also updated as part of the annual planning process and revised as part of the drafting of the Exit Strategy. No additional risks have been identified; however, the risk to the budget from the ongoing fall in the USD/AUD rate has been noted and factored into program budget planning.

4.2 Staff Reductions – Civil Action under the Cambodian Labour Law

CCJAP initiated a process of staff reductions following the completion of the CPCS program and the re-focusing of the program on Component 2 and the withdrawal of support for Components 1 and 3. Three program officers were retrenched after legal advice identified that their contracts could be concluded early under the unspecified duration contract provisions in the Labour Law, after payment of a specified amount based on the number of years' service. One officer has commenced legal action following this retrenchment and AECOM has engaged local legal representation to defend the case. The other two retrenched officers have not commenced legal action; however, they may do so depending on the outcome of the first retrenched officer's case. DFAT has been kept advised of the process of this action and at the present time the case has been adjourned for legal argument.

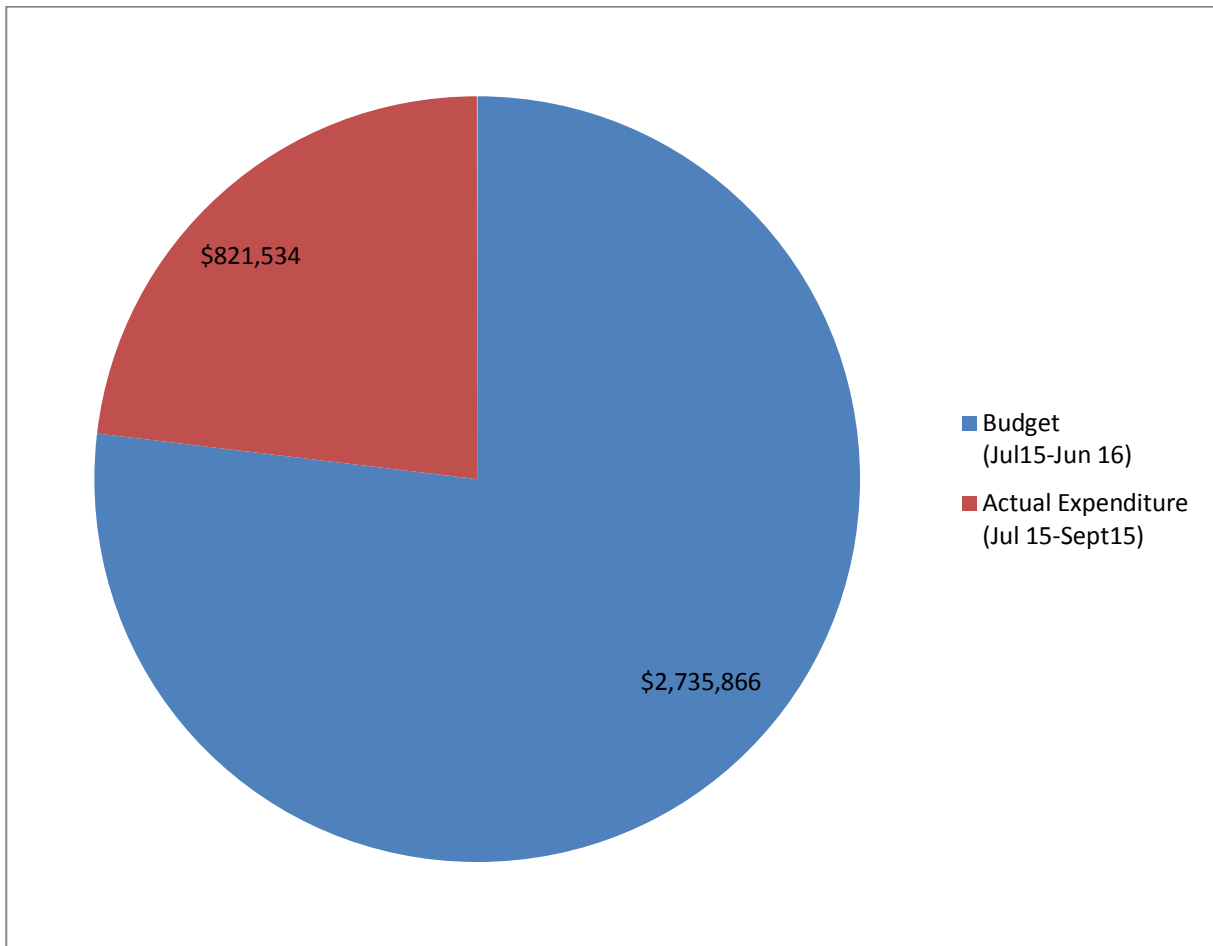

5.0 Budget and Expenditure

See Appendix E for detail of actual expenditure against contract value.

There are discussions underway to shift the focus of CCJAP, which will result in significant savings across the Contract. These discussions are taking place separately to this Report.

6.0 Monitoring and Evaluation

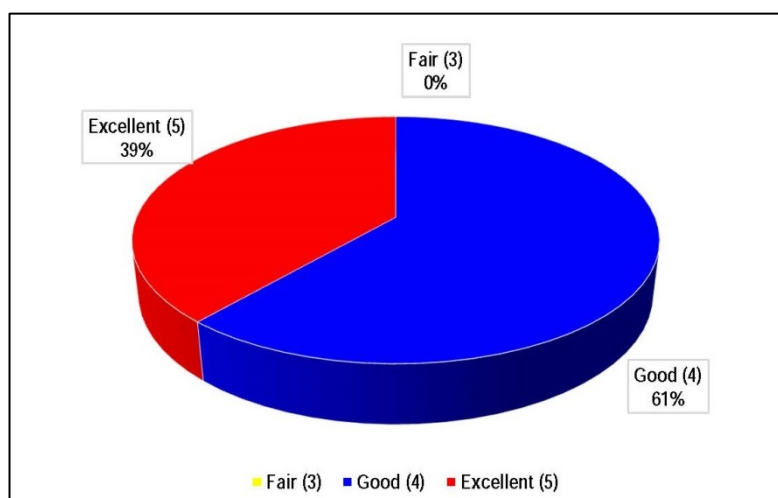

During the reporting period, CCJAP focused on the monitoring of CPCS project implementation and managed the CPCS end line survey through Angkor Research and Consulting Ltd, a private research company contracted to undertake an independent review of the impact of the CPCS program activities.

CCJAP's monitoring and evaluation process includes regular tracking of activities and their impact. In the case of the CPCS project implementation, all CPCS project proposals were sent to CCJAP head office in Phnom Penh, where all the CPCS project-related data (see Appendix B) was entered and regularly updated by the Managing for Development Results Officer. This monitoring data was also important for supporting and following up the progress of the CPCS project implementation, as well as for monitoring payments made against its schedule of costs.

In terms of monitoring CPCS project progress and performance in the field, all CCJAP provincial officers and their counterparts were directly responsible to monitor and assess the CPCS implemented projects through direct observation and interviews with project direct beneficiaries and other project stakeholders. The completed assessment forms were sent to the CCJAP Phnom Penh office, where the assessment data was entered (Appendix C), summarised and analysed and used to support management oversight and feedback to the NMB and counterparts.

During this reporting period, 57 out of 390 CPCS project implemented were selected for performance assessment through the CCJAP internal monitoring and evaluation system. The assessment results revealed that after having attended the CPCS dissemination meeting, 39% and 61% of 57 respondents rated improvement of their awareness as "Excellent" and "Good" respectively (Figure 5).

In June 2015, a CCJAP internal 'rapid assessment' was conducted of 116 out of 387 CCJAP-targeted communes that had been supported during the period, in order to find out whether any CCJAP targeted communes were using their own commune fund to support CPCS-related projects. This question is highly relevant to understanding if the CPCS-funded activities have established a sustainable platform from which commune leaders will support community safety reform in the future. The key respondents to this assessment were the commune chiefs, commune vice chiefs or clerks who have good knowledge of the use of each assessed commune's 2015 commune fund. One of the 116 communes was not able to provide a response due to a schedule conflict; however, CCJAP provincial officers were able to interview all other identified respondents and forward the data to CCJAP's Managing for Development Results team, who entered and analysed the data received. The findings from the assessment include:

- Among 115 communes interviewed, 84% of them used commune funds to finance social projects in 2015
- 84 out of 115 communes interviewed (accounting for 73% of the responding communes) used their commune funds to support CPCS-related activities in 2015. The amount of commune funds used to finance CPCS-related activities ranged from USD25 to USD2,375

Prepared for – Error! Unknown document property name. – Error! Unknown document property name.: Error! Unknown document property name.

- Only 1.2% of the allocated commune funds was used to finance the CPCS-related projects in 2015
- Upon asking why the communes had not allocated Community Safety funds to finance CPCS-related activities, we received the following responses:
 - 35% said “No idea”
 - 26% said “CCJAP already supported the activities”
 - 19% said “Infrastructure activities are the higher priority”
 - 10% said “No instruction from national level”
 - 10% said “CPCS activities require complicated procurement process”.

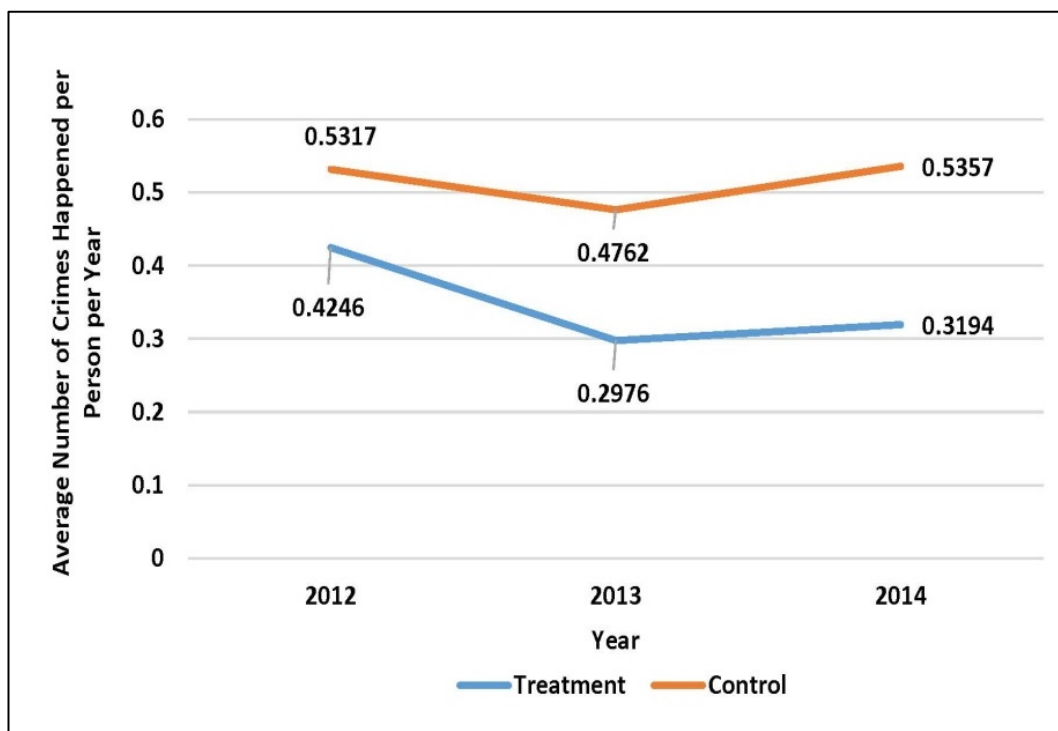

In early 2015, CCJAP engaged Angkor Research and Consulting Ltd. to conduct a study to measure the effectiveness of the CPCS project during the fourth phase of CCJAP in CPCS-targeted communes. The effectiveness of the project was measured in relation to: the safety of women, youth and children; changes in community crime rates; sustainability of the program; and changes in community behaviours. This survey included:

- A cross-sectional, quantitative survey of 756 households in three provinces (504 households in 12 communes that have received CPCS support, along with 252 households in 6 similar communes without CPCS interventions)
- A qualitative survey of 18 in-depth interviews with relevant local authorities (including commune police and commune council members) and community members (those that have participated in CPCS activities, and/or have the strongest perceptions of safety)
- Three focus group discussions with community members who had completed the quantitative survey already.

Summary of the results of the survey:

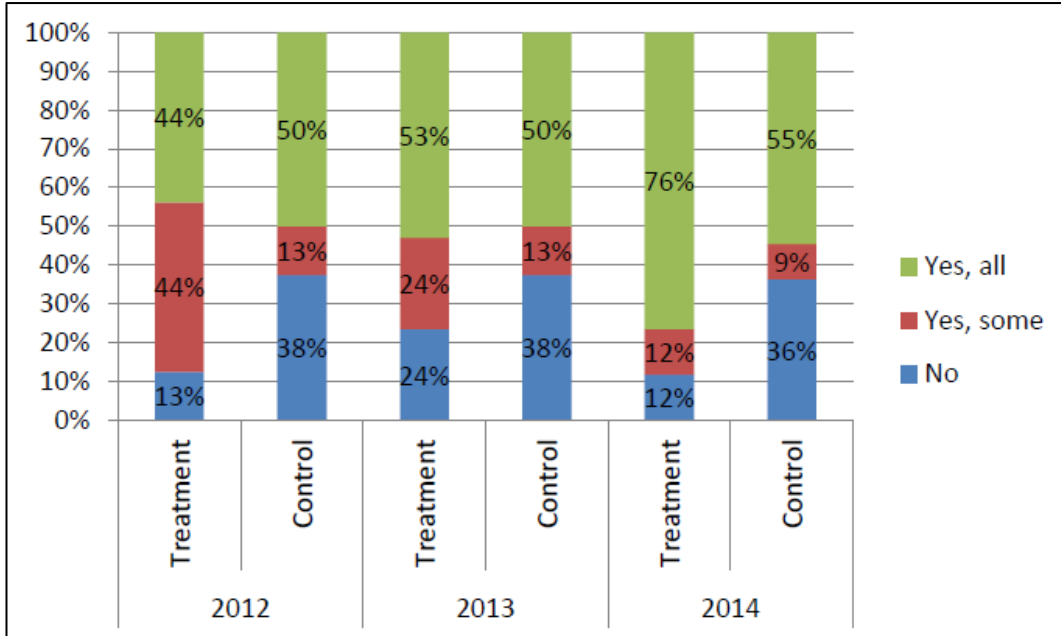

- The average rate of crimes per person was lower for the treatment group than the control group. Additionally, a decrease in rate of crime was observed in the treatment group, while the control group remained steady. While this suggests impacts of CPCS, the difference-in-deference (DID) analysis here did not prove this change to be statistically significant.

- There is a noticeable difference in the outcome of reporting, with the treatment group having a larger percentage of crimes solved than the control group. This frequency was also increasing through the timeline surveyed for treatment group, while the control group remained steady.

- In relation to how afraid of crimes respondents felt, the treatment group, overall and on specific measures, felt less afraid than the control group. The control group has a higher level of fear of various crime types than CPCS treatment respondents. In both groups, the fear has decreased in the past three years; however, the treatment group is declining at a faster rate than the control group. While these are encouraging for respondents' perceptions of crime, the DID analysis showed that it cannot be a definitive result of CPCS activities, as a statistical significance was not observed.

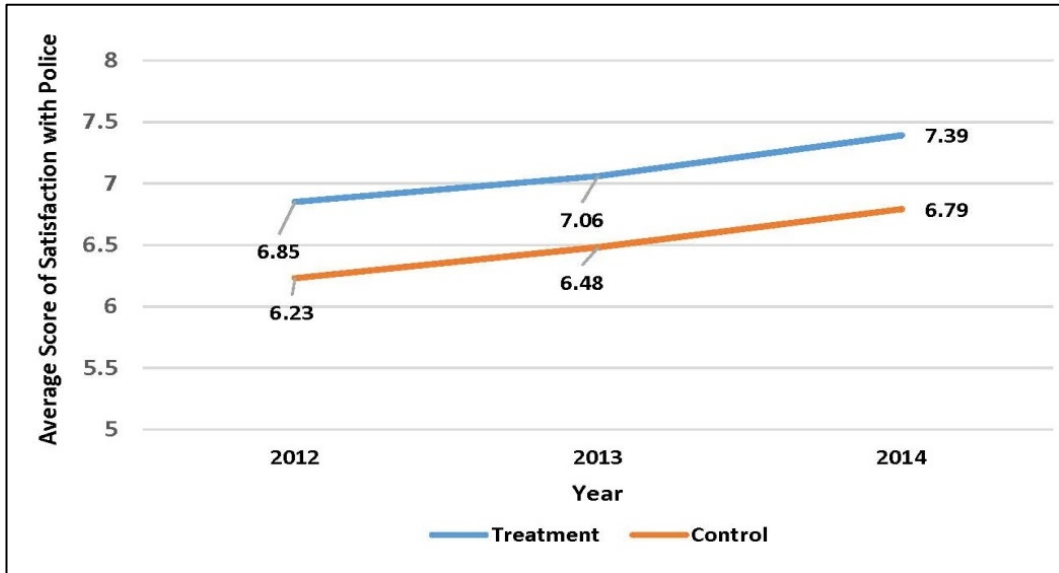

Figure 8 Fear of crime happening in village

- The treatment group was observed to have higher perceptions of safety than the control group in their homes, villages and various situations in the community. This is also mentioned anecdotally in the qualitative section of the survey report, due to increased police presence and education of beneficiaries about safety at these events.

- For overall satisfaction with local police, the mean satisfaction scores rose throughout the treatment period. This was true for the treatment group and the control group alike. While increasing at a similar rate, the treatment group was higher than the control group; however, because of the similar increase of the control group, the result of the DID analysis was not significant.

In regards to specific measure of police behaviour change, the largest change occurred in relation to the accessibility of police (defined as how easy it is to locate and contact police via telephone or in person). Here a significantly lower proportion of treatment respondents felt that it had become worse, and a larger percentage indicated that they felt it had improved either somewhat or much.
